To Whom it May Concern,

I'm concerned that the update to the San Juan County Comprehensive Plan does not adequately protect the rural nature of San Juan County. I am a resident of Orcas Island, with a particular interest in supporting the visioning process currently underway for Eastsound in particular, and the island in general. I agree with other writers that the impact of seasonal visitors must be taken into account, that the 20 year population projections will vastly underestimate growth impacts, and that you should focus on buildout projections rather than simply the 20 year projections.

In summary, I ask that you assertively and creatively intervene in this process to make sure the unique wild character of these islands remains.

Sincerely,

Robert Dash
